Course content

- Understand what asbestos is, its characteristics and where it is likely to be found.
- A look at the three main types of asbestos which include Crocidolite or 'blue' asbestos, Amosite or 'brown' asbestos, Chrysotile or 'white' asbestos, as well as others types of asbestos known as Actinolite, Tremolite and Anthiphillite.
- A list of common uses for asbestos which includes gutters, insulation boards, paints and many more. These are often called ACMs or 'asbestos-containing materials'.
- A look at when and why asbestos is a problem including information on the increased risk of developing a serious health condition when exposed to asbestos.
- Useful statistics from the Health and Safety Executive, which shows approximately 5,000 people die in Great Britain every year from asbestos-related illness after being exposed to it in the past.
- What the Control of Asbestos Regulations say and the responsibilities of those in control of premises.
- Details on what not to do when asbestos is present, and information on carrying out maintenance work in areas where ACMs are thought to exist.
- A look at property management, and a useful checklist to help you manage anything asbestos related.
